Teaching One-to-One: The Writing Conference

Muriel Harris
Teaching One-to-One
Teaching One-to-One
The Writing Conference

Muriel Harris
Purdue University

National Council of Teachers of English
1111 Kenyon Road, Urbana, Illinois 61801
Contents

Introduction

1 A Rationale for One-to-One Teaching
   The Role of the Conference in Teaching Writing
   What Does Conference Talk Accomplish?
   Benefits of One-to-One Teaching

2 Shapes and Purposes of the Conference
   Goals of a Conference
   The Roles of the Teacher
   Conference Tasks
   Elements of a Conference
   Conference Formats
   Conference Scheduling

3 Conference Activities
   Conversational Activities
   Directive versus Nondirective Approaches
   Uses of Language and Other Forms of Communication
   Conference Problems

4 Diagnosis for Teaching One-to-One
   The Teacher
   The Student
   The Written Product

5 Strategies for Teaching One-to-One
   Strategies for Working on Rhetorical and Composing Skills
   Can Grammar Be Taught?
   General Strategies for Grammatical Correctness
   Specific Strategies for Grammatical Correctness

Bibliography

Appendix A: Conference Excerpts

Appendix B: Practice Activities