LABOR-BASED GRADING CONTRACTS
In the second edition of Labor-Based Grading Contracts, Asao B. Inoue refines his exploration of labor-based grading contracts in the writing classroom. Drawing on antiracist teaching practices, he argues that labor-based grading contracts offer a compassionate approach to that is strongly grounded in social justice work. Updated with a new foreword and revised chapters, the book offers a meditation on how Inoue’s use of Freirean problem-posing led him to experiment with grading contracts. The result is a robust Marxian theory of labor that considers Hannah Arendt’s theory of labor-work-action and Barbara Adam’s concept of “timescapes.” The heart of the book details the theoretical and practical ways labor-based grading contracts can be used and assessed for effectiveness in classrooms and programs. Inoue concludes his exploration of labor-based grading by moving outside the classroom, considering how assessing writing in the socially just ways he offers in the book may provide a way to address the violence and discord seen in the world today.

LABOR-BASED GRADING CONTRACTS: BUILDING EQUITY AND INCLUSION IN THE COMPASSIONATE WRITING CLASSROOM

SECOND EDITION
The Perspectives on Writing series addresses writing studies in a broad sense. Consistent with the wide ranging approaches characteristic of teaching and scholarship in writing across the curriculum, the series presents works that take divergent perspectives on working as a writer, teaching writing, administering writing programs, and studying writing in its various forms.

The WAC Clearinghouse, Colorado State University Open Press, and University Press of Colorado are collaborating so that these books will be widely available through free digital distribution and low-cost print editions. The publishers and the Series editors are committed to the principle that knowledge should freely circulate. We see the opportunities that new technologies have for further democratizing knowledge. And we see that to share the power of writing is to share the means for all to articulate their needs, interest, and learning into the great experiment of literacy.

Recent Books in the Series

Jennifer Grouling, Adapting VALUEs: Tracing the Life of a Rubric through Institutional Ethnography (2022)

By Chris M. Anson and Pamela Flash (Eds.), Writing-Enriched Curricula: Models of Faculty-Driven and Departmental Transformation (2021)

Alexandria L. Lockett, Iris D. Ruiz, James Chase Sanchez, and Christopher Carter (Eds.), Race, Rhetoric, and Research Methods (2021)

Ryan J. Dippre and Talinn Phillips (Eds.), Approaches to Lifespan Writing Research: Generating an Actionable Coherence (2020)

Lesley Erin Bartlett, Sandra L. Tarabochia, Andrea R. Olinger, and Margaret J. Marshall (Eds.), Diverse Approaches to Teaching, Learning, and Writing Across the Curriculum: IWAC at 25 (2020)

Mark Sutton and Sally Chandler (Eds.), The Writing Studio Sampler: Stories About Change (2018)

Kristine L. Blair and Lee Nickoson (Eds.), Composing Feminist Interventions: Activism, Engagement, Praxis (2018)

Patricia Portanova, J. Michael Rifenburg, and Duane Roen (Eds.), Contemporary Perspectives on Cognition and Writing (2017)
Acknowledgments

I wish to humbly thank so many people in my professional and personal life for helping me in the writing of this book. First, I thank my editors, Sue McLeod and Rich Rice, as well as Mike Palmquist, all of whom have been supportive, helpful, and thoughtful colleagues. I feel blessed to have such good people working to help my book become public. I thank my wife and partner, Kelly Inoue, for all of her labors each day that allow me to sit in peace and do the labors of writing and revising. And when I needed to just talk about an idea, she has always given me her ear and time. Along with those precious gifts, Kelly has given me her trust, love, and presence, things I could not live without, and are essential ingredients in my ability to write this book.

I’m thankful to several colleagues who read earlier versions of this book, Chris Knaus from University of Washington, Tacoma, my brother in antiracist work, and Norbert Elliot, a friend, colleague, and always careful, kind reader. I extend a special thank you to Virginia (Gin) Schwartz, a Ph.D. student at the University of Wisconsin and long-time grading contract user, who read an earlier version of the book and gave me valuable and extensive, page by page, comments and ideas. She was an important part of making this book possible in its current form. Of course, I’m also, as always, thankful and grateful to my mentor, Victor Villanueva, who still helps, guides, and supports me. He is my academic father, and often I am mindful of his gifts to me, gifts of time and presence, of words of encouragement and kindness, and sometimes, just a smile and laugh. I am indebted to the two anonymous reviewers of the book, who each read thoughtfully, carefully, and compassionately, providing me with insightful and helpful suggestions, many of which I took, particularly in rethinking parts of the Introduction and the order of the last few chapters.

And lastly, I wish to thank all of my students at California State University, Fresno, and the University of Washington, Tacoma, for helping me with my labor-based grading contracts over the years. This book has been at least ten years in the making, and that labor started and ended in my classrooms, places that required open, compassionate students to help me think, labor alongside them, and do our social justice work together. My students have been, and continue to be, my main source of encouragement, inspiration, and joy. Thank you.
CONTENTS

Foreword to the Second Edition. Antiblackness and the Use of the N-Word in Academia ................................................. ix
Introduction. Laboring Toward Grading Contracts and the Inner Dikes .... 3
Chapter 1. Problematizing Grading and the White Habitus of the Writing Classroom .......................................................... 21
Chapter 2. How I Came to Labor-Based Grading Contracts. ............... 47
Chapter 3. What is Labor in Labor-Based Grading Contracts? ............ 75
Chapter 4. What Labor-Based Grading Contracts Look Like ............. 125
Chapter 5. Why I Use a Charter for Compassion with My Contract .... 165
Chapter 6. What Concerns Are There of Labor-Based Grading Contracts 187
Chapter 7. How Effective Can Labor-Based Grading Contracts Be? .... 233
Coda. Assessing English So That People Stop Killing Each Other .... 301
Works Cited. ................................................................. 309
Appendix A. Grading Contract for First Year Writing. ................. 325
Appendix B. Sample Charter for Compassion .......................... 333
Appendix C. Sample Labor Log ..................................... 335
Appendix D. Labor Instructions for Drafting Your Personal Narrative . 337