PRACTICE & PEDAGOGY

Series Editor, Mike Palmquist

The Practice & Pedagogy series offers occasional publications by the WAC Clearinghouse. Books in the series range from scholarly monographs to republished textbooks to edited collections. The series provides an opportunity to explore the intersections of theory and practice in the daily work of writers and teachers of writing.

The WAC Clearinghouse makes books in the series available in open-access formats. As teachers and researchers of writing, the members of the Clearinghouse are committed to the principle that scholarly work should be available to all who seek access to it. We offer this series to expand access to good work and good ideas.

OTHER BOOKS IN THE SERIES

Problems into PROBLEMS: A Rhetoric of Motivation, by Joseph M. Williams

Toward a Taxonomy of "Small Genres" for Writing Across the Curriculum, by Richard E. Young

The Informed Writer: Using Sources in the Disciplines, by Charles Bazerman

Learning Re-abled: The Learning Disability Controversy and Composition Studies, by Patricia A. Dunn
